THREE SISTERS

An instant bestseller upon its release, penned by the acclaimed author İclal Aydın, Three Sisters is the adaptation of an heartfelt story. Once upon a time in a beautiful yet mysterious country, there lived sisters named Türkan (Özgü Kaya), Dönüş (Almila Ada), and Derya (Melisa Berberoğlu). As a close-knit family, they would dream of a bright future with their father Sadık (Reha Özcan) and mother Nesrin (İclal Aydın). Over time, the sisters discover that life and the choices that are accompanied by it are not as easy as they seem. Inconceivable secrets can be hidden even by those who are trusted the most and horrific illnesses can lead to the resurrection of the past, which eventually bring them to the question: Is there anything in the world that time cannot heal?

BEHIND THE SILENCE

According to the World Health Organization, every third woman in the world experiences violence during her lifetime.

"I'm sorry that I call you in a wartime, but I need help," — from these words often start calls to the hotline or to support services for survivors of domestic violence in Ukraine, from the beginning of the full-scale invasion. Some are afraid or ashamed to turn to specialists, some believe that his or her problems during the war are not so significant. But domestic violence can hurt no less than war.

How did gender-based and domestic violence change during the war?
How do specialists cope with the new challenge of helping survivors of war-related violence, particularly sexual?

"Behind the Silence" is a story of solidarity during times of crisis. It portrays the unwavering support. It is a story of how, even after experiencing the most horrifying situations, people can start a new life and heal when there is support nearby.

UNDER YOUR SKIN

Against the background of Russia's military invasion of Ukraine, tattoos with Ukrainian symbols have become a stigma for which Ukrainians are prosecuted and can even be killed.

The story is shown through the eyes of Alina, a 21-year-old tattoo master from Kherson. When her hometown was occupied by Russian troops, the whole world watched how the citizens bravely resisted the invaders. With the growth of Ukrainian patriotism, Alina started having more work - the flow of people wishing to get a tattoo with Ukrainian symbols would not stop. But gradually, Alina's work began to change...

Her previous clients started to come back with requests to cover up their Ukrainian tattoos. The patriotic images became a "stigma" by which the Russian invaders identified those who disagreed with their power.

Repressions, searches, and inspections came to Kherson. Suddenly people started to disappear. Just because they identify themselves with their nation... even on their skin.
